

High-net-worth individuals worldwide added more than $20 trillion in wealth over six years

Article

Between 2014 and 2020, high-net-worth individuals (HNWIs) in every region got collectively richer. This trend is most notable in North America and Asia-Pacific, where the combined wealth of HNWIs grew by more than $16 trillion. HNWIs worldwide were worth nearly $80 trillion last year.

Financial Wealth of High-Net-Worth Individuals (HNWIs)* Worldwide, by Region, 2014-2020

trillions

Note: *defined as having more than $1 million in investable assets
Source: Capgemini, "World Wealth Report 2021," June 29, 2021

267452 eMarketer | InsiderIntelligence.com

More like this:

- Report: How High-Net-Worth Individuals Invest
- Article: How technology can improve wealth management for HNWIs
- Article: iCapital Network scores \$400M to capitalize on private equity demand