

The Banking & Payments Show: When will real-time payments overtake cash and checks?

Audio

On today's episode, we discuss the use cases for real-time payments and where the service is headed. In our "Headlines" segment, we dive into embedded finance developments. In "Story by Numbers,” we break down numbers that highlight the use cases for real-time payments for enterprises and consumers. Our final segment explores the Federal Reserve’s pending launch of FedNow and how it will coexist with The Clearing House’s real-time payment network. Listen in as host Rob Rubin welcomes Ulrike Guigui, executive vice president, head of enterprise payment strategy at Wells Fargo, and Sandra Nudelman, head of consumer data and engagement platforms at Wells Fargo, to the conversation.
