

Health startups vs. the giants, healthcare's digitization, and AI medical assistants

Audio

On today's episode, we discuss whether startups like Oscar Health can take on the major health insurers, how the consumerization of healthcare is changing expectations, and what digital tools are leading to healthcare's digitization. Tune in to the discussion with eMarketer principal analyst at Insider Intelligence Lisa Phillips.

4 in 5 US Physicians Had Conducted Virtual Consultations by July 2020

Percent of respondents who report having conducted virtual patient consultations, by month

Source: Decision Resource Group, "Taking The Pulse 2020 Physician Survey," September 2020

Methodology: Decision Resource Group conducted two surveys of practicing US physicians. The first (n= 4,855) was conducted from March–April 2020. The second (n=405) was conducted from June–July using respondents who also participated in the first survey. Both surveys are representative of the overall population of practicing US physicians.
