

How the Coronavirus Dragged Our Robot-Filled Future Even Closer

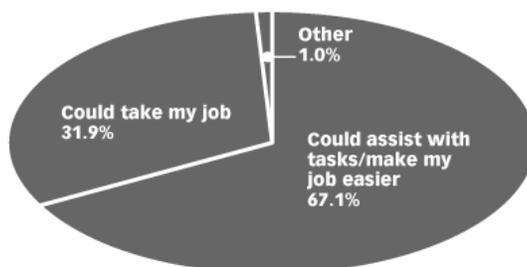

AUDIO |

eMarketer Editors

eMarketer principal analyst Victoria Petrock discusses the shifting mindset toward worker, assistant and delivery robots and offers some examples of how they are already helping people everyday. She also explains what's holding drones back and when to expect driverless cars on the roads. Then Victoria and senior research analyst Dane Finley talk about whether telehealth is here to stay, the significance of Alexa's longer-form speaking voice and whether virtual reality is capitalizing on stay-at-home measures.

What Do US Employees Think of When They Hear the Words "Automation Technologies" or "Robots" When Used in Conversations About the Workplace?
